The Honorable Henry L. Marsh, III, Chairman, and the Honorable Rosalyn R. Dance, Vice Chairwoman, of the Special Subcommittee on the 50th Anniversary of Public School Closings in Virginia, today announced that, as a part of the statewide commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the closing of public schools (Massive Resistance) and the 55th anniversary of the historic 1954 Brown v. Board of Education decision, the Special Subcommittee will meet at the Martin Luther King Performing Arts Center in Charlottesville High School, 1400 Melbourne Road, in Charlottesville, Virginia, on Friday, September 10, 2010, at 10:00 a.m. Matters pertaining to the work of the Commission and its subcommittees—the Special Subcommittee, Expenditure and Review Subcommittee, and Abraham Lincoln Bicentennial Subcommittee—will be considered at the business meeting. The business meeting will be followed by a Town Hall from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m., to which the public is invited and citizens are encouraged to participate in the discussion.

The Special Subcommittee, established by the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Commission and the Brown v. Board of Education Scholarship Committee, is responsible for planning, developing, leading, and coordinating the statewide observance of these historic events. Other members of the Special Subcommittee include legislative and citizen members of the King Commission and the Brown Committee, and representatives of the legal, business and corporate communities, the state and federal court systems, professional education organizations, public and higher education officials, educators, relevant state agencies and local governing bodies, community organizations, recent Brown scholars, and localities in which public schools were closed to avoid desegregation.

In 1959, after the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Brown, Virginia embarked on a public policy of Massive Resistance in which public schools were closed in Charlottesville, Norfolk, Prince Edward County, and Warren County, depriving thousands of school children of an education. In Arlington, state public education funds were rescinded because public schools did not remain segregated. Although public schools were eventually re-opened in other areas of the Commonwealth, they remained closed in Prince Edward County for five years, until the Supreme Court ordered the re-opening of the public schools in 1964. Despite the Supreme Court ruling in Brown that school segregation was unconstitutional, public schools in Virginia did not immediately begin to desegregate. In fact, all levels of government demonstrated intense resistance to compliance with the Brown decision, as the Commonwealth exhausted every possible means to avoid desegregation. The resistance lasted 10 years. After the formal end of Virginia's Massive Resistance, desegregation cases continued to be heard in federal courts until 1984, and the last case was finally dismissed in 2001.

The Special Subcommittee's meeting and Town Hall are open to the public. However, persons desiring to address the Special Subcommittee are encouraged to register in advance with Mrs. Brenda H. Edwards, Division of Legislative Services, General Assembly Building, 2nd Floor, 910 Capitol Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219, no later than Thursday, September 9, 2010, at 12:00 noon, by email at bedwards@dls.virginia.gov or by phone (804) 786-3591. Persons who do not pre-register may do so on site. All speakers are requested to limit their remarks to three minutes. However, the Town Hall Moderator reserves the right to limit further the time allotted speakers to accommodate all who wish to participate in the discussion.
